Dear Ms. Allison:

In response to your letter of May 19, The Council for Tobacco Research does not maintain a fellowship program as such, but awards project grants to support independent studies by faculty-level scientists in hospitals, universities, and research institutions. However, our awards often do include monies to pay research associates or even graduate students.

I am taking the liberty of including the standard letter we usually send to investigators who inquire about our grants.

Sincerely,

Harmon McAllister
